

May 4, 2009

To the National Society of Leadership and Success-

Roy Chan is a determined young man who excels in everything he strives to accomplish. With a consistent positive outlook on life, his leadership is exuberant continually following with success. During our Success Networking Team meetings, Roy always provides encouraging words and great advice to all members of the group, while assisting me immensely in how to achieve my goals with great success. I have also had the privilege to participate in choir at UCI with Roy, as well as travel with him to Wales this past summer of 2008 to participate in the Llangollen International Music Eisteddfod. On this trip, Roy took on leadership roles by setting an example for the rest of the group—his dedication to learning the music, his responsibility of always being on time, his kindness in helping others with luggage, and giving others encouraging words to keep them motivated exhibited leadership excellence. Roy is a deserving candidate of the National Excellence in Leadership Award, because he will continue to further his leadership skills by demonstrating leadership excellence to society.

A handwritten signature in cursive script that reads "Arielle S. Miller". The ink is dark and the writing is fluid, with a large initial 'A'.

Arielle S. Miller

Student, University of California Irvine