To the Parents of Roy Chan:

Congratulations! Roy has been recommended to represent the United States in international competition as a People to People Sports Ambassador. As a successful and involved student athlete, Roy is eligible to apply for one of two exciting basketball programs, each built around a major overseas tournament for which People to People Sports Ambassador Programs has agreed to form teams.

Even as our hearts go out to everyone touched by the recent international events, we are moving forward with the People to People mission of promoting world peace and understanding through one-to-one contact between individuals. Such was the vision set forth by the program's founder, President Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1956. Today, we are inspired by the words of President George W. Bush, "We will not allow this enemy to win the war by changing our way of life or restricting our freedoms." As we renew our commitment to a better world, it would be an honor to have you join us.

As a participant, Roy will become a member of a competitive team, take part in regular practices, build athletic skills, discover another part of the world, and become friends with athletes from around the globe. To help make the most of the destination's international competition and culture, each program features:

- A training camp with team practice conducted by skilled coaches.
- An invitational USA Basketball, and Swiss or Australian Basketball Association-sanctioned tournament with an opening ceremony, an awards presentation and a guaranteed number of games.
- Cultural and historical exploration and the opportunity to earn academic credit.

Choose to participate in Australia's A.I.S. Hoopfest or the Switzerland Invitational. Each delegation will include athletes, coaches, and leaders who serve as chaperones and advisors. Before departure, Roy will receive orientation information and will be able to talk with people who lead our athletic delegations.

Student athletes are chosen from national sports organizations, and nominated by People to People coaches, leaders, and alumni. In addition to experiencing outstanding competition, Roy will join thousands of explorers who have discovered the world with People to People Ambassador Programs.

To learn more about People to People Sports Ambassador Programs, attend a special meeting in your area in mid-May. Your local meeting is the best way for you and your family to find out about the itinerary, competition, educational and cultural activities, high school and university credit, tuition and the application process.

Space at the meeting is limited, so please reserve seats for you and your family by April 23 using the enclosed reply card. Or visit our Web site, www.sportsambassadors.org/reserve/. When you logon, please use your PIN as it appears below. Prepare for this exciting athletic challenge, and I will see you in mid-May!

Sincerely,

Jack Vines
