Dear Mr. Chan:

Thank you for your interest in our graduate program in International Education Policy and Management (M. Ed.). I am sorry to have to inform you that our review of your application and credentials did not lead to a recommendation of admission.

Graduate programs at Peabody College of Vanderbilt University receive applications from many outstanding candidates. Unfortunately, limited resources and competition among well-qualified applicants preclude our offering admission to all who seek it. Please know that your application and supporting materials received a close and careful review.

Admissions decisions are difficult, both for faculty who review applications and for applicants who await notification. I regret having to send you this disappointing news, but I wish you every success in the pursuit of your educational goals.

Sincerely,
