

May 13, 2009

Dear Sir or Madam,

Roy Chan is a well-mannered and determined individual. While I have only known him for the past couple of months, he has shown in that short span of time a dedication to helping others and providing an excellent example of ambition and drive to achieving his goals. During our SNT meetings Roy has always given positive, substantive and helpful advice both to myself and the other members of our group. His upbeat attitude is contagious and always sets a high standard for group motivation and outlook on life. I whole-heartedly support Roy for the National Excellence in Leadership Award.

Sincerely,

Colin James Moberly

University of California Irvine – Student